

Honors Project Permission – Repository

All 2024-2025 PLNU Honors Projects added to the Point Loma Nazarene University institutional repository (pointloma.whdl.org) were submitted in accordance with the terms articulated below, thereby granting PLNU non-exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the project in print or electronic form, including open access electronic distribution. The degree award date listed in the PLNU institutional repository for each Honors Project corresponds to the Friday of finals week in the semester when the student completed HON4099.

Text from HON4099-SP25 project submission instructions:

If you wish to have your paper published in Arete: The PLNU Honors Journal, you submit it here as a PDF. Please note that if you submitted it, you are agreeing officially for the university to publish your paper online through the university's institutional repository as outlined in the following document: Thesis and Honors Project Permission Form 2019.docx .

Specifically, submission of Honors Project document PDF via Canvas HON4099-SP25 course constitutes electronic signature of the following:

Access Permissions and Transfer of Non-Exclusive Rights
By signing and submitting this form, I (the author and copyright owner) grant to Point Loma Nazarene University (PLNU) the non-exclusive right to reproduce and distribute my thesis/work in print and electronic form. I agree that PLNU may, without changing the content, convert my thesis/work to any medium or format for the purpose of historical preservation and to make available in open access. All such copies will retain original notices of authorship and copyright. I understand that as the author of this work, I shall, without limitation, have the right to use, reproduce, distribute, update, create derivatives, and make copies of the work (electronically or in print). U.S. Copyright law protects me against the unauthorized use of this work; the right to use in future works all or part of this work. I understand that PLNU shall have the right to non-commercial use which includes the right to reproduce, distribute, and make copies of the work (electronically or in print) in connection with digital repositories, teaching, and scholarly activities conducted at PLNU.
<input type="checkbox"/> Optional for School of Business: Checking this box means that these access permissions will not pertain until two years from the above date of the submission of electronic copy to the department or school. The document will not be accessible for a two-year period.
Author signature:	Sandidge, Thaddaeus Date: _____