LEADERSHIP

This year, the SGA team was comprised of: President Connor Back, Vice President Shaun Hall, Social Vice President Jack Biewend, Secretary Kalyn Nelson, Business Manager Curtis Mostul, Publicity Director David Waterman, Oasis Editor Leslie O'Donahue, Community Relations Coordinator Doug Waterman, Campus Ministries Director Danny Atkins, Student Center Director Brent Conrad, Athletic Liaison Cassy Wade, and Intramural Overlord Lukas Rieke, and they were all lead by the fantastic Grant Miller!

This year our SGA has done some incredible things to get our school ready for action! From all the events we love to budgeting for clubs and activities.

SENATE

On our small campus there are plenty of groups (including Senate, Discipleship groups, multi-cultural groups, and peer mentors) to get involved with. Senate is in place to help decide where/how student fees are distributed to various groups and clubs on campus. The Mentor groups are there to help support students in various means, whether that be spiritual, mental, physical.

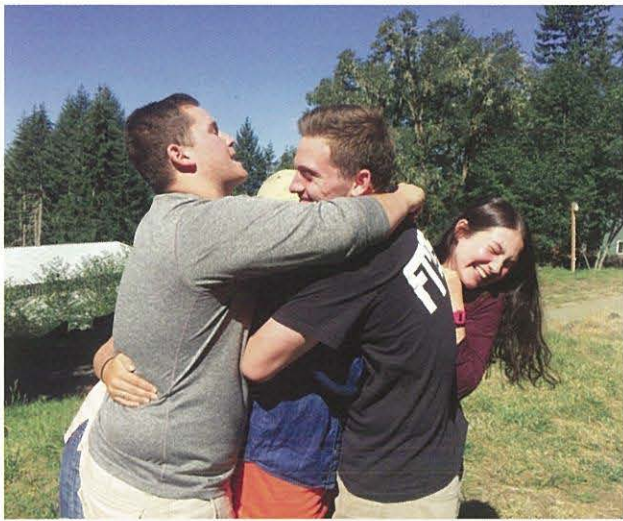

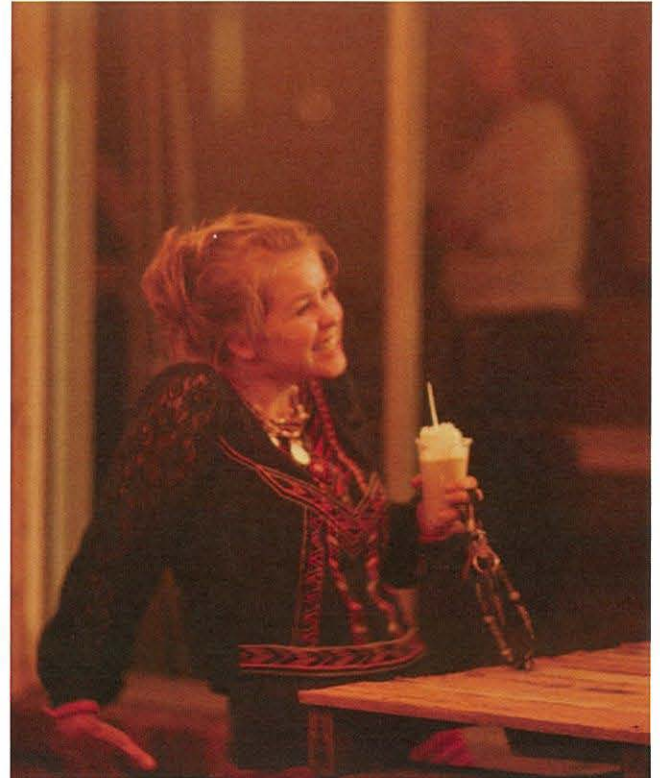

Covenant and Witness are the two traveling Summer groups who spend the Summer leading camps, visiting churches, and doing service projects in the Northwest Region. The 2014 Summer Covenant team included: Kraymer Lorig, Ronny Beech, Lucas Lyon, Becca Roberts, Miles Wilson, Christina Wright, and Paul Zukowski. The Witness team consisted of : Danny Atkins, Emily Burke, Taylor Chapple, Mario Donaldson, Hetta Hanson, Samantha Lundberg, and Ross Martinson.

Our Brick House is a trademark among NNU students with their amazing Bricks (their speciality drinks) and all the themed events. It's no wonder the Brick House was the place to be every Thursday! The live-in residents over Fall semester were Laura and David Halle, and then Joshua Mast came and took over Spring semester. While doing so he brought many awesomely themed nights to get our spirits lifted every Thursday!

MOVE-IN DAY

The day that students are excited for, nervous or anxious about or somewhere in between as finally arrived...move in day! Whether you're a freshman moving away from home and into Ford or Culver Hall or a returning student moving into Dooley, Sutherland, Corlett, Olsen, or Kirkeide, move in day can be pretty exciting and exhausting at the same time, with getting away from home and carrying around all of that luggage. Plus it's always nice having a helping hand nearby, meeting new people, or seeing old friends again!

scavenger HUNT

Freshman students divided into teams to conquer all the tasks and activities planned for them by SGA. This was a wonderful opportunity for the freshman class to bond within their groups! As always, the biggest highlight of the night was the end-of-hunt milk chug.

BONFIRE

As per tradition, NNU SGA held a fantastic welcoming bonfire. This year, according to theme, the bonfire resembled a pirate's ship! The evening's festivities were a success, complete with s'mores, dancing, and connecting with new students and friends alike.

ROOTBEER FEST

In honor of the wonderfully funny Robin Williams (and in accordance with the theme), students were taken on pirate-y trip to Neverland in Steven Spielberg's "Hook." Rootbeer floats were served in colorful tumblers that students got to take home as a souvenir of their evening on the lawn.

friday night lights PAINT FIGHT

Friday Night Lights is a majestic competition between the dorms Ford, Culver, Sutherland, Dooley, Corlett, Kirkeidi, and Olsen. Each team is representative of a hall and goes through a series of fiercely competitive games to win ultimate victory and pride. Always a crowd pleaser, this event features only the most challenging of obstacles.

ROLLER SKATING

Week one ended with the annual skating fiasco at the Nampa Rollerdone. This year the theme was under the sea, and students came in all sorts of creative and outlandish costumes. It was a great chance for people to connect with one another before getting ready to kick it into full gear in classes!

broom HOCKEY

An annual event that happens during the fall is broom hockey, which is a fun little competition that puts class against class. This year they had Freshmen verses Juniors and Sophomores verses Seniors, then later Freshmen verses Sophomores and Juniors verses Seniors. After a very competitive couple of games, where some people went home with lovely bruises, the Seniors ended up dominating the game. Then afterwards, all of the students got together to play team games on the ice. All in all, it's always an exciting event to attend and to have fun with your friends!

FRESH OFF FRESH HERE

One of the longest lasting NNU traditions that happens every spring semester is Fresheree. During Fresheree students from all over campus get together and perform hilarious skits for the student population. It is definitely a blast!

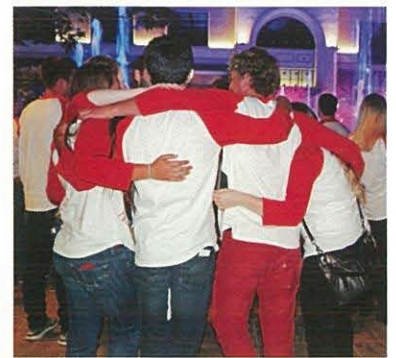

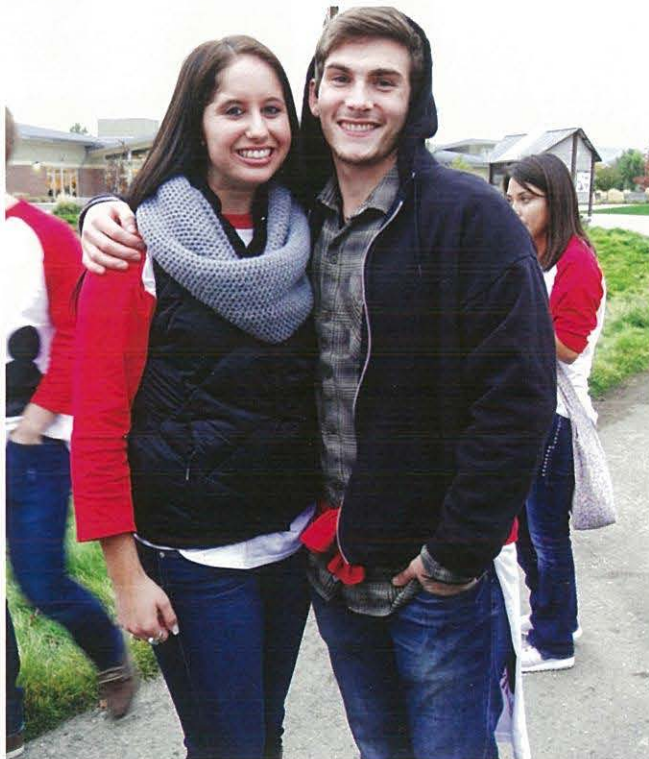

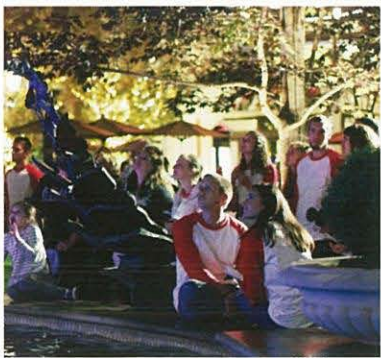

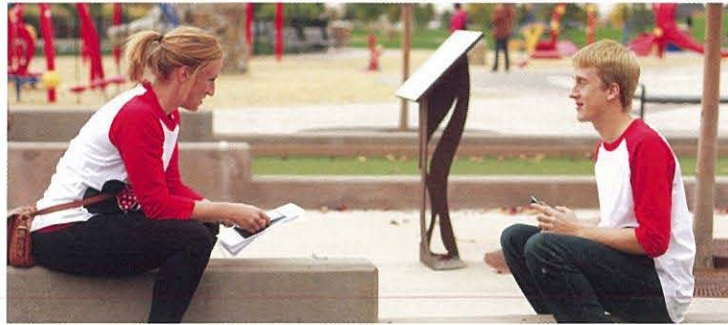

Bibbidi Bobbidi Boo! This magically Disney “Beauty and The Beast” inspired weekend showcased nothing but fun and adventure! The weekend began with beautifully designed shirts that had a hint of Mickey and Minnie along with their classic colors and Minnie’s unmistakable polka dot bow.

The night entailed dazzling scavenger hunts, light shows, corn mazes, food, and the traditional end-of-the-night movie at The Overland Park Cinemas.

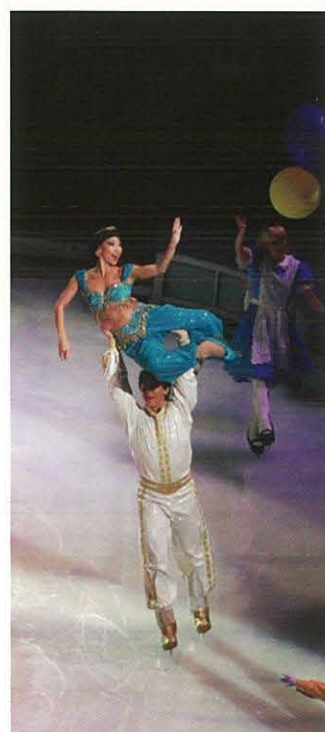

For all TWIRP memories this one holds the trophy. Not only did everyone come dressed up as their favorite Disney couples, either as all goodies or all badies, but the students were also spoiled with Disney on Ice!

The beautiful props and skaters left everyone on their toes with oohs and awes galore as they were pulled through the classic Disney tales.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming is the huge celebration of alumni and reunions that happens every fall. This year, the Junior class council did a magnificent job setting up our coronation ceremony, the 80's party, and helping the student body cheer on our basketball team as they played the annual homecoming game.

MANZANA CRAS

This year our SGA brought in a new event called Manzana Gras. It featured making your own apple juice, caramel apples, a photobooth, and music! Definitely a new twist to events that was a blast and was interactive.

procrastination PARTY

Another of our student's favorite evenings is the Christmas-themed procrastination party which serves as a nice break between dead week and finals. Santa Clause, puppies, and Christmas crafts were the main attractions at this years party.

week BACK

The first week of spring semester is probably like move in day, where some people are excited to be back on campus and others are disappointed that school is starting again. But no matter how you feel about it, you can always count on the week back event to cheer you up. This year, they went to the Student Center first where they roasted bananas over a fire with chocolate chips and marshmallows and then they all went over to the Rec Center to hang out in an empty building with just NNU students. That's always fun since you have the basketball court, rock climbing, different swimming pools, the upstairs track, and other activities to do, which is a great way to wind down after a week of syllabus' and new classes.

Mr. NNU is the school's annual men's pageant which features two NNU men from each class. They are all required to do a total of two skits and one interview in which they must convince the student body that they alone are capable of carrying out the duties and responsibilities of the role which is Mr. NNU. The night was full of laughter and goofiness and some of our very best friends. This year, we congratulate senior Oscar Diaz who is 2014-2015 Mr. NNU.

BLACK TIE

Oceans 15 was the theme of this year's Black Tie celebration. Students dressed to the nines in their very best casino attire and took a limo to the Boise Train Depot where a fancy dinner was served. Afterwards, entertainment in the form of casino games and dancing was enjoyed. The evening was a success!

SERVE DAY

This year for Serve Day, about 40 students went out to serve our Nampa community by picking up trash and lacquering benches in a local park. They also raked pine needles at the Nampa Fire Station. The day was finished off with a tour of the new Nampa Library!

fall PLAY

During the Fall Play the audience needed to mentally prepare themselves for an emotional roller-coaster. The Boys Next Door took the audience from very high moments to some of the lowest moments a person could go through. And the cast members did nothing but shine as they represented each of the characters with their own disabilities. Director of the show, Rick Strader, had been wanting this to be performed as the fall play for a few years now and it definitely did not disappoint.

spring MUSICAL

For the second year in a row our Spring Musical Production was directed by Krista Jo Miller. This spring we got to witness the eye-popping magic that was called Seussical. Many NNU students and alum were part of this grand attraction that surely knocked everyone's socks off with their amazing musical numbers and dance routines. This was surely a musical for the books!

clubs and ORGANIZATIONS

At NNU, there is a club for everyone. Several clubs exist on campus to interest everyone. Ministry clubs, business clubs, and outdoor clubs (among others) provide an atmosphere that where students can gather together to bond of similar interests while often making a difference in the community and on campus.

OASIS STAFF

Editor in Chief, Leslie O'Donahue, lead us, the Oasis team, through hours of designing (Sara Wren, Stephanie Copenhaver, Janson Card), photographing (Danielle Miller, Hannah Winchester, Brittany Sever, Aubri Akana), and writing (Kayla Davidson, Nicole Lewis, Lauren Davis) the 2014-2015 Oasis yearbook.

We hope that you enjoy looking back and reminiscing on all the fun and exciting events that took place this amazing school year!

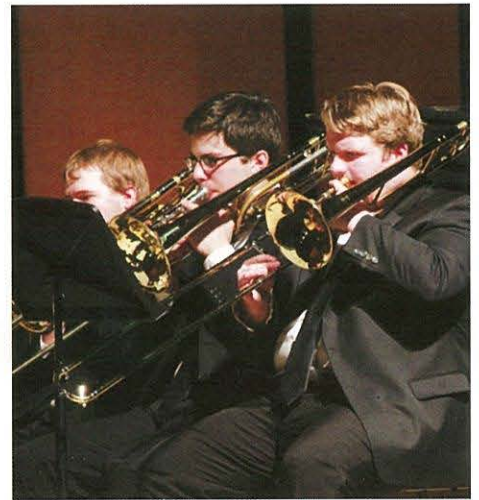

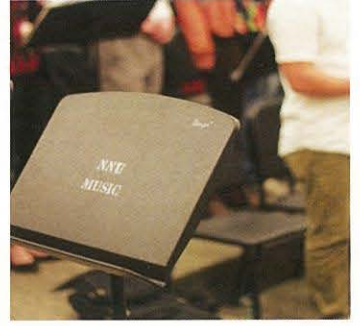

If you don't know about CruZoo then you definitely didn't go to enough basketball games. CruZoo is the pep-squad, if you will, for your basketball games and seriously know how to bring some excitement! You'll definitely know who they are just by their flag! They are always front and center, ready to cheer our basketball players into action!

choir, band, ORCHESTRA

NNU provides a variety of opportunities to be involved musically, even if you're not a music student! Several opportunities include a variety of bands and choirs. Many groups perform on campus and in churches regularly, representing NNU's more artistic sides.

TIME OUT

This year, Danny Atkins and his team of leaders have done an amazing job at leading Time Out. Many students attend these Spirit-filled evenings at the NNU Sader Dome as students get opportunities to share testimonies, talk about relevant issues, and commune with each other. This year has been very exciting and moving!

superlative SHOW

Our Student Center Director was none other than Brent Conrad and he really set the bars high this year with the Superlative Show, a new name from the previous Wednesday Night Live. Each night was different and always brought something new to the table. The Superlative Show was directly after Time-Out on Wednesday evenings and was a great break from the stresses of the mid-week.

Fall & Spring INTRAMURALS

Campus League is an intramural program designed for the students of NNU to be able to participate in the thrill of sports and competition without having to join an official team. Lead by director Lukas Rieke, the fall intramurals were a blast to watch and to participate in!

Spring intramurals included sports such as volleyball and soccer among others. The games were filled with competition and tons of laughter as the season proved successful.

SPORTS

SOCCER

The head coach for the Women's Soccer team was Mary Trigg and she led our ladies into battle fiercely! It was a tough season but our ladies gave it all they got and we could not be more proud!

Men's Soccer was coached by Coach Michaelson and they dominated while out on the field! No one stood a chance against our Men's Soccer team as they came home with more wins than you could count on your fingers!

VOLLEYBALL

This year our Volleyball team, coached by Doug English, was on fire with a total of 24 wins that lead them to the NCAA D-II West Regional Volleyball Tournament, carrying them to the NCAA National Tournament for the second time in NNU history.

The team loses 4 seniors this year, but to come back to do just as well and better next year!

COUNTRY

John Spatz is the head coach for track and cross country and during this 2014 season both our Men and Women's Cross Country teams have placed at the NCAA West Regional Championships. Way to go, Sadlers!

BASKETBALL

Women's Basketball was coached by Ryan Bragdon who stood by our Lady Crusaders through many wins and losses. They found hard this season as a team and we cannot wait to see what next season brings!

BASKETBALL

This year our Men's Basketball team was coached by Dave Daniels, who led our Crusaders into many battles, some lost and some won. It was definitely a close season between the games but everyone fought hard and we are so proud!

SOFTBALL

With Softball season starting in the spring our ladies have put in a valiant effort as they were lead by Rich Wagner. We couldn't be more proud of them!

BASEBALL

Northwest Nazarene University's baseball team has had an amazing season so far this year. They've had a great record as well as the honor of being the highest GNAC ranking team in the NCBWA regional poll. We are so proud of our guys! They are knocking our competition out of the park!

FIELD

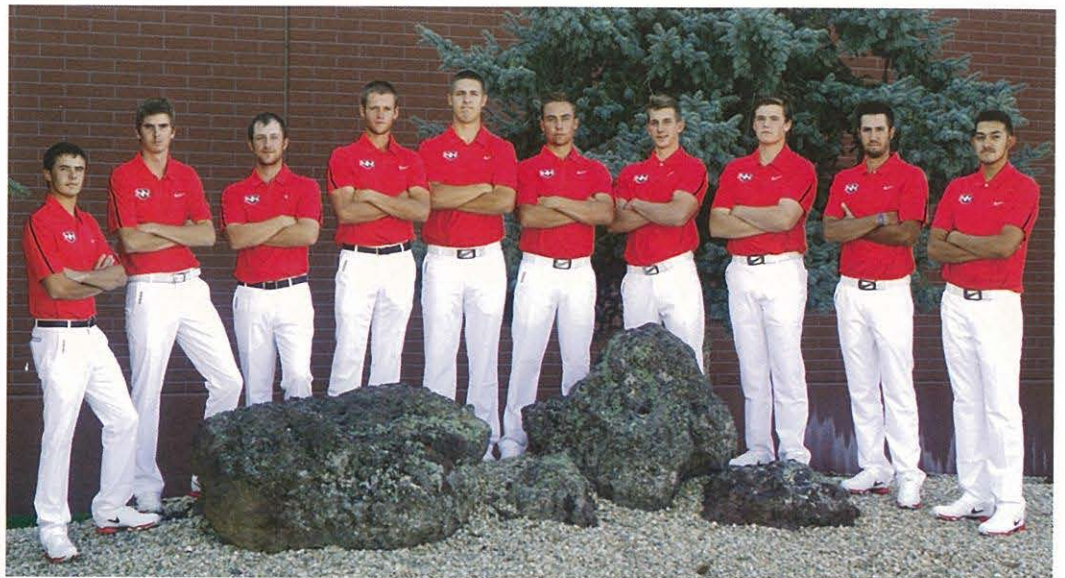

This year has been a wonderful year for the NNU Track and Field team. Not only have multiple records been set, but the track record has been amazing. Our team consists of dozens of extremely strong and competitive individuals which ultimately come together to create one of the strongest teams in the conference. We are extremely proud of our Track and Field team!

GOLF

This year has proved successful for the women's golf team. They consistently performed well and showed that they are capable and fierce competitors. Some of the highlights have been Sam Miller's top weekly honor in the GNAC and the team's amazing performance at the Corban invite. We are so proud!

With an amazing team consisting of Ian Briske, Michael Delie, Keynan Fanslow, Kory Gaona, Wyatt Imhoff, Taylor Judy, Jonathan Koenig, Connor Magnuson, Justin McAfee, and Derek Thompson, they have all worked together to create an amazing season for this year's golf team.

MISSIONS

Every year, NNU makes a point to provide several missions opportunities for students. This year, we have groups going to New York City, Argentina, Colombia, Haiti, and Poland. We are so thankful for the work God is doing in the lives of our students who are going on these trips and in the lives of those they will reach.

This year the Crusader Newspaper has been headed by Avery Russell, who is the Editor in Chief, and has taken a new look! Instead of a magazine feel the Crusader has become, once again, a good ol' newspaper completed with amazing articles and the well known game of Sudoku. The designer Sara Wren and newspaper staff definitely did an amazing job with this new look and feel for the Crusader Newspaper! Below, we've highlighted some of Avery's favorite stories from the year.

THE PRESIDENT AND I: AN INTERVIEW WITH PRESIDENT ALEXANDER

By Eric Satyn

Being the president of a university is a tough job. In many ways, it's the most difficult job on campus. The role requires someone that is willing to invest countless hours of their time into the school and its students. So much is expected from just one person that it takes a person as dedicated and selfless as Dr. David Alexander to do it.

Since being elected in 2008, Dr. Alexander has been serving the university with his encouraging words and kind spirit. He is a strong advocate for the NNU values of transformation, truth, service, and community. All six vice presidents and the athletic director report directly to Dr. Alexander. The rest of the professors and staff have other superiors that they report to.

Dr. Alexander's favorite aspect of being the president is all of the people he gets to work with, staff and student alike. "Each and every day I hear another story of how a student or a faculty member or university staff member has cared for someone or has expected something more out of a student than what they thought they were capable of...and they have a lightbulb moment where they realize 'I really can do this.'" The transformational aspect of NNU is what keeps Dr. Alexander going. Seeing a person's personal growth is an incredible encouragement.

This desire to see a change extends to the university as a whole. One of the most important things Dr. Alexander would like to see become stronger in the coming years is classes that will help students make important spiritual decisions. It's easy to associate these kinds of student-made decisions coming out of a Bible class, but he wants students to have the opportunity to think about their own spiritual issues in every class. "We have to provide curricular and co-curricular that foster spiritual formation." President Alexander was in college when he made the critical decision to follow Christ and believes that other students can use this crucial time of personal development to make that choice as well. Dr. Alexander was willing to admit that not every student would take advantage of this system and that everyone needs to make the choice if they want to just try out this "religion" thing or if they want to go in wholeheartedly.

As for the future of NNU, Dr. Alexander has a few plans set in motion that will hopefully come to fruition soon. "We're still in the process of becoming a university," said Alexander. "We'll continue to strengthen the undergraduate/residential experience and in addition to that, we'll continue to grow in our adult and graduate offerings." The options that are currently in the works include on-campus classes, but here is a big push for a more prominent online program.

Coming to college is arguably one of the biggest decisions a person can make, and Dr. Alexander talked about some of the advantages it can give to aspiring students. "College is a unique opportunity that a certain group of people have in the world to pause and to think deeply and to reflect and to learn in a concentrated time unlike any other time in their lives," he explained. He went on to say that the kindergarten through 12th get to go off and explore on your own. This freedom allows the student to become who they truly want to be and customize their further education in the exact field that they want to delve in to.

NNU, he says, is designed "to help people find their sense of calling." Making money, although the primary reason for many to attend college at all, comes second to the fulfilled and satisfying life that they will develop on this campus. Statistics show that people that go to college make one million dollars more than those that don't, but President Alexander explains that it's not the only reason to go. It might be a nice additional bonus, but the personal changes and who a person becomes emotionally, spiritually, and even theologically are what matters at the end of the day. Jobs come and go; upstanding moral and spiritual character is what lasts in the end, and Dr. Alexander recognizes that and encourages others to embrace a similar mentality. When all is said and done, and we've all earned our million dollars, will we be able to say that we have the character to match that hefty sum? Dr. Alexander certainly hopes so and wishes to see this university flourish by serving and honoring God's kingdom.

THIRD TIME'S A CHARM FOR MILLER: FORMER NNU STUDENT ATHLETE AND WEB SPECIALIST JOINS STUDENT DEVELOPMENT

By Avery Russell

"Anyone can hold the helm when the sea is calm."
Publilius Syrus

Syrus said it perfectly. Anyone can be a leader, but it takes the right kind of person to be a great leader. A great leader is someone who can not only handle the calm times, but also the hectic times. Northwest Nazarene University is blessed to have many great leaders in its midst.

Kenton Lee, former Assistant Director of Campus Life, left at the end of last year to pursue a full-time job as pastor of the Table Church in Nampa, as well as to continue developing his non-profit project, Because International. From leading various campus league games to his genuine dedication to the student body and campus life, Lee's hard work and dedication during the last five years has not gone unnoticed. Now, the perfect man to continue the job is already picking up where Lee left off.

Meet Grant Miller, the new Director of Community Life for Student Development. You may be thinking, 'New? That cannot be! I've seen him around plenty of times!'

It's true; Miller has been around the block a few times at NNU. Graduating for the first time in 2010 with a double major in Public Communications and Political Science, it's safe to say Miller got his share of educational learning. He was also on the track team, and served in various roles on campus such as: Athletic Liaison, SGA Executive Vice President, and SGA President. He involved himself in a plethora of other activities on campus including leading a worship team, playing intramural sports, acting in plays and musicals, and involving himself in everything he possibly could.

Due to his eligibility to throw for the NNU track team for one more year, Miller returned to a familiar home on campus, and in that timespan earned another major in Philosophy and a minor in Spanish. But no, the fun didn't end there! Miller then enrolled in the Master of Arts in Spiritual Formation program at NNU and graduated with his Master's in 2013. He also got married in 2012 to Jen Miller who works in admissions at NNU, and he was soon after hired to work as the Web Content Specialist in NNU's Marketing Department.

"God has worked in my life in tons of ways to bring me new opportunities," Miller said. "After I graduated from NNU I planned on attending law school, and although I got some great offers from some great schools, I felt very strongly that studying law was not something I was meant to do. I had the opportunity to live in the Brick House for a year, and in the midst of that time got engaged to Jen."

Miller explained that during his time working for NNU's Marketing Department, he stayed in touch with Student Development. It had been a huge part of his time as a student at NNU and when he heard that Tim Milburn [Director of Campus Life] and Kenton Lee [Assistant Director of Campus Life] were moving on to pursue other opportunities, he was thrilled to have the chance to apply for the position. His belief is that being personally involved in campus life during one's collegiate career is a vital part of an overall positive educational experience and may be part of the reason he felt so strongly about applying for this position.

So what does Miller's job entail? He described his role as an advisor to all student organizations on campus. That being said, he spends a lot of time with the SGA officers upstairs. In the bigger picture, Miller oversees and advises all campus clubs and student activities/leaders that are not sourced by other offices on campus, such as Residential Life and Spiritual Formation.

"A more philosophical role that I play on campus is to serve as an advocate for all of our students here at NNU," Miller said.

As the new advocate for campus and student life, Miller comes to the table with some future goals. His initial plan for this year and the years to come is to continue to support and empower the student body to be the absolute best it can be. "Whether that is through new clubs, events, or leadership opportunities, the beauty is with every new year there are new students in leadership, so things can always be changing and growing," Miller said.

The same goes for Miller when it comes to change and growth. "I have always felt the reality of God's going before me and helping me to find the right opportunities at the right time. Things have not and will not always be perfectly situated, but by faithfully working to always be glorifying God at every point, I have been led to feel extra ordinary blessed and content, no matter where I am. It's definitely a process of growth."

In his free time, Miller is constantly involved with activities in the community. He is not only actively involved in church at Nampa First Church of the Nazarene, where he helps with worship and teaches Sunday School for college students, he is also working on ordination in the Nazarene church, which involves his taking classes a couple of times a year. In addition, he travels and plays every couple of months with a ministry group called Woods End.

"I also play rugby for a team in Boise that has finished in the top five in the country in each of the last three years, so I travel a few weekends a year for that,” Miller said. “At home, Jen and I love to go antiquing, drink coffee, read fiction and nonfiction books, and watch a lot of ‘80s TV on Netflix—Murder, She Wrote is amazing.”

As the year is already off to a good start, he is looking forward to making college a positive part of each student’s life. He feels blessed to be working with SGA leaders and although he knows the rhythm of SGA quite well, he is pleased with how well the leaders have handled the transition of his new position. “I love all of them and the hard work they are doing to make this a memorable year for our students. As for the future, I am very much looking forward to the next round of student leaders I will get to see emerge in the spring,” Miller said.

Originally from Vancouver, Washington, Miller and wife Jen will not be leaving the NNU community any time soon. As we say goodbye to great leaders like Lee and Milburn, we say hello to equally great leaders such as Miller. Those who have not had a chance to visit Miller, his office is located inside of the Student Center upstairs in Student Development.

As our conversation ended, Miller left me with this: “Getting a degree from a quality institution starts in the classroom, but the kind of experience that we promise here can only be truly obtained through a personal experience with all of the services and opportunities that we offer at NNU.”

Truth rings from every side of Miller’s statement. College is a time to be involved, try new things, and embrace these moments with lifelong friends. The fact of the matter is, you never know where God will lead you and Miller’s story is a prime example of just that.

THE FOOD WE LOVE: SODEXO AT ITS FINEST

By Marina Rose

If you’ve been at NNU for the last couple of years you may have noticed some changes in The Dex, our lovely campus cafeteria run by the company Sodexo. Sodexo has been at NNU since 1959, although it has been called many different names over the years -- Saga, Marriott, and Sodexo-Marriott, to name a few. And the name is not the only thing that has changed over the years.

When the Student Center underwent some much needed updates to the carpeting and furniture, The Dex also took action. Instead of small, hard-to-read paper signs with listed hours and menu items, Sodexo created black, modern-looking signs that featured hours, events, and menu items and worked to improve the space they had.

But perhaps most importantly, The Dex started work on a wider and healthier menu.

“Our pizzas are handmade by staff every day, and we now offer more vegetarian friendly options,” said Kayla Davidson, Sodexo’s first marketing intern at NNU. “There have been complaints in the past about the quality of food at The Dex, and that attitude kept getting passed down to incoming freshmen. But with the improvements, we’ve had a lot more positive feedback, and most of the negativity is gone.”

One thing that Andy Chaplin, the Director of Food Services, has done is to offer comment cards. Students can use these cards to offer suggestions for further improvement, and the great part about them is that Chaplin reads every single one and tries his best to address every issue that students raise.

“There were a lot of complaints in the past, but students weren’t really offering any solutions. But as The Dex has undergone changes, student complaints have been paired with plausible solutions,” Davidson said.

One of the greatest strengths that The Dex has is enormous amount of teamwork. Though there are many new faces this year, there are also plenty of familiar faces.

“Everyone works together like a family. It’s such a great environment to work in,” Davidson exclaimed.

Sodexo employees’ willingness to work together as a team has paid off, as Sodexo was named “One of the Best Companies for Hourly Workers” in 2013 by Working Mother magazine, and the #1 company for diversity by Diversity Inc. Keep in mind that Sodexo is a nationwide company, and we should be very grateful for their continued presence at NNU.

The Dex has also been working on hosting more student events. It is Davidson’s job to make sure that NNU students know about these events. Upcoming events aren’t posted in some obscure, dark corner in the Student Center, they are front and center on the board right inside The Dex doors, on Sodexo’s facebook page, Sodexo@NNU, and on www.nnudining.com. Oh, and they’re also floating around in your e-mail inbox, so open up those emails from Davidson and Chaplin! One event you don’t want to miss is the Sweet Things Gourmet Desserts! Sound delicious? Then head on over to The Dex this evening for some yummy treats!

Some other events that Sodexo has held are the BBQ Blues and Smokehouse Steaks. These events are catered by Sodexo and outside restaurants, and attendance to these events usually only costs a card swipe and a few extra bucks. Not too bad for a deliciously catered meal.

Speaking of catering, did you know that Sodexo not only provides us with delicious and healthy meals every day, they also cater meals for special events on and off campus? They are also in charge of The Bean in the Learning Commons.

The Dex staff is a very busy bunch, but they always manage to keep smiles on their faces. In fact, many NNU students work for Sodexo, and every one that I have talked to always has something positive to say about their work. It is not only a job or a means of income, it is a part of the loving NNU community that we live in and love so very much.

KNOWING JESUS: DANNY ATKINS AND HIS MISSION FOR NNU

By William Roemhildt

“What does it take to see it leave the walls of NNU?”

I recently met up with Campus Ministry Coordinator Danny Atkins to discuss his SGA position and his plans for this semester. It was a Thursday, less than a week before Winter Awakening was set to start and the day after the weekly Timeout - a busy time for the CMC. I had originally planned for this article to be almost exclusively on campus ministry, but what Danny had to say left me little choice – the focus should be on the man running the whole show. As the interview progressed, a question emerged: “What does it take to see it leave the walls of NNU?” This question will be my point of departure.

As you probably noticed, the question is missing a subject. So, what is this “it” that we are talking about? I will answer this question momentarily, but for the sake of comparison, let’s substitute the word “skill” or better yet “brilliance” for “it”. What does it take to see brilliance leave the walls of NNU? Forgoing the expulsion of brilliant individuals, it would take talented dedicated educators, bright dedicated students, and no small manner of hard work to see a true “brilliance” leave the walls of NNU. The question template could be applied to athletics as well. What would it take to see athletic excellence leave the walls of NNU? Not being a student athlete I speculate it takes athletes, for one, and excellent coaching to guide them. In each case, a master/pupil, player/coach relationship is required. The same goes for the spiritual formation on this campus, which makes Danny Atkins our coach, of sorts.

The “it” in the question then might best be filled with this phrase from the NNU Mission Statement: creative and redemptive agent[s]. What does it take to see creative and redemptive agents leave the walls of NNU? This is the question Danny is trying best to answer, and the mission he is striving to fulfill. Coming from a very Christ-centered background – growing up in a church of 2,000 and youth groups of hundreds – a Christian vision and worldview came naturally to Danny. He highlights his older brother, Young Life leader, and youth pastor as having key roles in his spiritual calling to lead. It began with reaching out to others in his high school that didn’t know about Jesus’s love, and after his mom heard a radio ad about a small school in Nampa, Idaho; it brought him to us. Peculiarly, NNU maybe wasn’t everything Danny was looking for.

Coming out of high school, he was ready to serve. He was ready to leave because he wanted the Word to be heard. As he said to me with a grin though, and I paraphrase: NOBODY here HASN’T heard the Word of Christ. NNU offered him an alternative, and that was to grow instead.

“We have so many tools here to pursue our faith,” he says and if we look beyond the walls of this school, and of our hearts, we can be the creative redemptive agents in this place here and now. Nampa has struggles. There are those who need to know the real Jesus. Wanting this campus to genuinely know Jesus might be Danny’s unofficial mission statement. He references J.I. Packers book Knowing God for a definition of what truly knowing Him means, and points to a key passage that delineates from knowing of him, and knowing Him personally:

[T]he question is, can we say, simply, honestly, not because we feel that as evangelicals we ought to, but because it is plain matter of fact, that we have known God, and that because we have known God the unpleasantness we have had, or the pleasantness we have not had, through being Christians does not matter to us.

Looking at Danny's position as Campus Ministry Coordinator, from my vantage point at least, he really is taking on the position with the highest calling for a student. He defines his position as a spiritual leader of the campus and a representative of the student body. This of course means so much more than those few words indicate. Like any position of leadership, it requires consistency and accountability; and with the added element of spirituality it also requires an unmatched authenticity. One would need to be a sort of superman to live out those virtues, and Danny is quick to point out that that is not him. In a year that he describes as "difficult," his relationship with Jesus has seen him through. Resting in the love of God and putting full dependence on His grace has led him through growing pains in the face of his own struggles and allowed him to be the spiritual leader this campus needs.

So what does it take to see it leave the walls of NNU?

FRIENDS WHO RUN TOGETHER STAY TOGETHER

By Sarah Blum

If you're like most people, the idea of running ten or fifteen miles seems daunting, if not downright immoral. But for a select group of individuals, including the NNU cross country-team, running is a joy and a bond that brings people together.

There are four seniors on the team this year, and they are all unified regarding their team goal of making it to Regionals. Kaleb Fleenor says, "Team goals this year are to make Top 4 in conference and Top 8 at Regionals." Additionally, qualifying for nationals is in the scope for the team this year.

Last year Fleenor and Michael Gordon, who have been running together since sophomore year of high school, both made it to the NCAA DII West Regional Championship. This year as seniors they are focused on leading the team to new levels of excellence.

Gordon remarks that even though it's his last year of running, he doesn't want to focus on himself, but on being a great leader for his younger teammates. "I don't want to leave my mark as a fast runner or a great athlete, but rather someone who people could talk to about things going on in their life. I want to lead my team with the utmost integrity and lead them in the right way as they continue their journey here at NNU."

Cross-country requires that kind of strong commitment from leadership, both leading by example and pushing from behind when things get hard. Running may be an individual activity, but it requires a lot of teamwork. Hailey Gordon says, "This year in particular we've made it a goal to decrease our gap times. This means that each runner's goal is to get as close as they can to their teammate running in front of them. By decreasing our gap times, making it to Regionals should easily be accomplished."

Not only are closing gap times key to team success, but so is everyday motivation. Who but your teammates keeps you going when the going gets tough? Susanna Fleming recounts one of her favorite memories from the cross-country team. "We had to do a long run and it was blizzarding outside and really windy. The girls on my team all took turns leading the pack so the other girls could shield themselves from the icy blizzard. I hated it at the time, but it was a really good bonding experience and actually really funny!"

Michael and Hailey Gordon get to experience teamwork like most people never will, as not only teammates, but husband and wife. Hailey joined cross-country when her soccer coach jokingly informed her that she enjoyed running way too much. In high school, she talked her best friend into joining the team too - but it didn't take much to convince him. "If it meant spending more time with the woman that I was all googly-eyed over then I was all for it," says Michael.

Hailey signed to run for NNU first, and Michael says she still doesn't believe that she was part of the reason he signed too. "I finally made it out of the friend zone our second semester of our freshman year during track. Two years later, we got married June 21, 2014. It is truly a blessing."

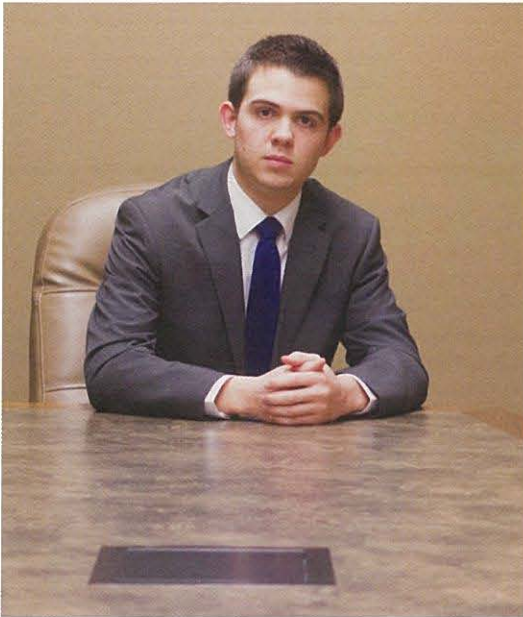

The couple runs together a lot, unsurprisingly. Hailey remarks that running with her husband pushes her, "But what's even more nice about being teammates is that we completely understand each other's dedication and passion for running and respect that. We get to experience the ups and downs of being athletes together. And most importantly, we are able to prioritize our relationship and running, both of which are obviously important to us."

Running may seem like cruel and unusual punishment to many, but it certainly has its benefits. It's certainly not easy to keep putting one foot in front of the other for miles on end, but that aspect of placing mind over matter makes the ends justify the means. When you don't give up, despite the pain, you reach that runner's high. Susanna Fleming sums it up nicely: "It makes me grateful to be alive."
